

L'Orfèvrerie d'Anjou, Angers, France

For almost three centuries, the French company, L'Orfèvrerie d'Anjou, in Angers, has been designing and making pewter objects. It has become a world leader of pewter in the luxury industry. To this day it continues to establish trends and use innovative new techniques and new forms.

The quality of l'Orfèvrerie d'Anjou stands out. Products receive individual inspections at each stage of production to check everything from engravings to welds. They say that the alloy they used is perfect for food use, and the manufacturing techniques non-polluting.

Once the creative team has completed the design, l'Orfèvrerie d'Anjou, under the responsibility of a fully qualified master craftsman engineer, makes sure that creation and actual production are harmoniously brought together.

The Worshipful Company of Pewterers visited L'Orfèvrerie in 2007 as the culmination of a short tour of the Loire Valley. They were very kindly received by Christophe Dubois, the Chairman and CEO, and shown round spectacularly modern works. For a selection of what they produce, visit www.lorfeverriedanjou.com.
